

Analysis of Communauto rates

Toby Dylan Hocking

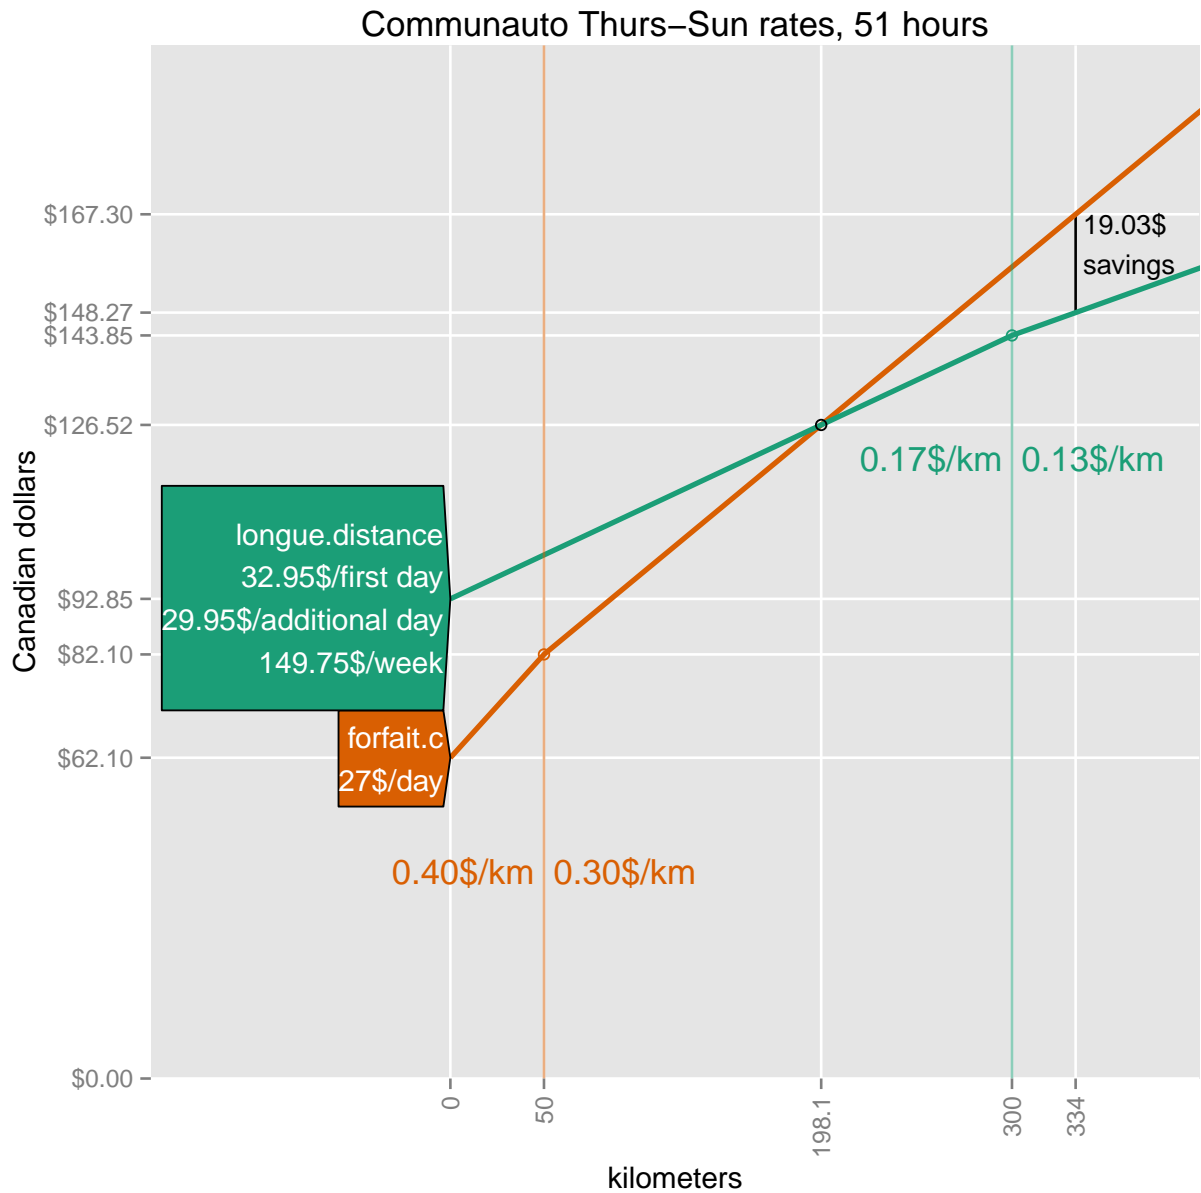

June 5, 2015

This goal of this report is to show how much money could be saved in communauto by choosing the “Tarif Longue Distance” rather than the default “Forfait C.”

The figure above shows that I was billed 233.90$ for a Forfait C trip of 583km and 1 day, 13 hours. If I chose the “Tarif Longue Distance” I would have been billed only 150.69$, for a savings of 83.21$.

It also shows that for 2 day trips like this, it is cheaper to use “Forfait C” only if you drive less than 38km. That is not plausible, so a money-saving rule is to always choose “Tarif Longue Distance” for 2 day trips.

The figure above shows that I was billed 167.30$ for a Forfait C trip of 334km and 2 days, 3 hours. If I chose the “Tarif Longue Distance” I would have been billed only 148.27$, for a savings of 19.03$.

It also shows that for trips like this (a few hours more than 2 days), it is cheaper to use “Forfait C” for trips under 200km.